

ABSTRACT:

The method according to the invention detects a blocking task during a context switch performed by an underlying real-time operating system (406) and prevents the blocking task from running during the period in which the task blocked.

5 <Figure 4>

PHNL010127